the woods for the bodies. They confessed to the killing and led officers to the burial spot. The body of Pierce was mutilated with an axe. The confessors said while walking single file out of the swamp after they were

ROAD CONTRACTORS MUST GIVE 20 PER CENT BOND

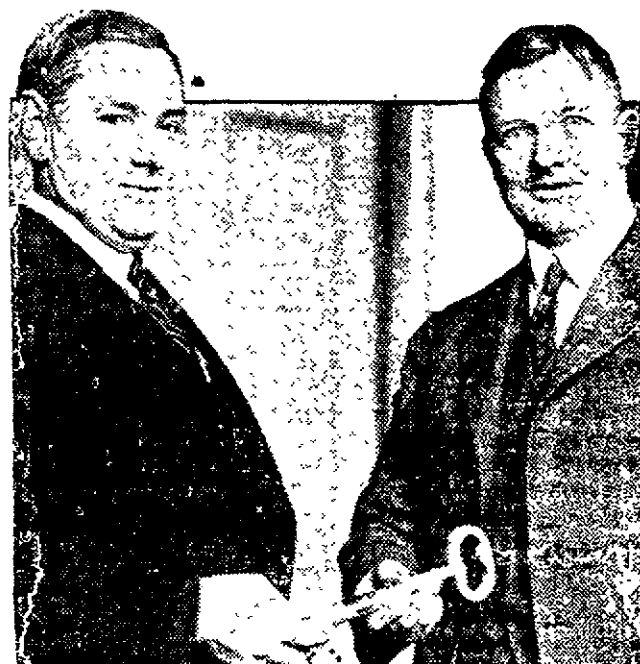

By Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, Mar. 7.—Road contractors may make personal bond for 20 per cent of the amount of the contract price accompanied with a certified check, Liberty bond, or other security of equal worth, as collateral.
Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer said today. This announcement was made on the authority of an opinion from Attorney General Charles L.
Dawson.

Contractors objected to the rate charged by bonding companies which charge more than 1 per cent of the contract price and this with the rates for compensation insurance, they asserted, cost the state about $1,000 the mile additional for road construction since the amount on bond and insurance necessarily are figured into the bids.

The highway commission agreed to relied the contractors if it could be done legally and with safety to the state, and laid this situation before Attorney General Dawson, who said that a personal bond would be legal and "gilt edge" collateral would protect the state.

This new regulation will go into effect at the next meeting, March 14.

EL-DRINY MOHAMED HAMED

ROYAL TOMB IN HIS YARD

Egyptian Student in Kansas University Aspects Riches From King's Sarcophagus

LAWRENCE, Kas., March 7.—
There's a grin on the face of El-Driny Mohamed Hamed, Egyptian student in the school of medicine at the University of Kansas, ever since he heard of the discovery of the tomb of King Tutankhamen at Luxor.

Because Hamed owns land in Cairo on which a king's tomb is located and he thinks it may contain treasure of value equal to that in the Luxor tomb.
Hamed has written to the American counsel at Cairo, through Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the university, requesting that the tomb be opened.

The Egyptian student inherited the land from his father, a former major in the Egyptian army, who died several years ago.

While a boy Hamed played about the tomb. He could enter the first chambers, but the main door was closed and the tomb has never been entered. The sand has drifted against the door, and almost covers it.

The father had often been advised to open the tomb on the chance of finding treasure. Hamed says. But his father never believed that any treasure lay behind the closed door,
and he saw no purpose of disturbing the resting place of the country's former king.

There is also a native belief that if a tomb is disturbed a child in the family of the invader will die.

dog is still at large and it is not known whether or not it is mad.

IS BLACK CAT EVIL OMEN? GIRL HAS STRANGE EXPERIENCE

Is it a sign of impending bad luck
for a black cat to cross your path?
While Miss Glynn White was crossing Nineteenth street early yesterday evening a black cat suddenly darted in front of her. Though not of a superstitious nature she was worried over the incident and asked some of her friends if they regarded it as an omen of evil. Seeing that she was in earnest they tried to reassure her and to quiet her fears.

Miss White returned to her home and began to eat supper. Suddenly she threw up her hands and screamed: "I am going to die," and collapsed. Doctors were hurriedly summoned and hypodermics were given the patient but her condition continued serious all through the night. This morning she was quieter but her condition is still serious.

Was the sudden appearance of the black cat a mere coincidence with her illness or was it really an omen of disaster? Why was the girl affected so strangely by it when she was not given to superstitions?

DAN GIBSON IN HIS LATEST ROLE, CITY HOTEL MANAGER

Cases of mistaken identity often lead to complications but the case subsequently related was chiefly humorous in its aspect.

While D. Z. Gibson was in Cincinnati recently he stopped at the Gibson hotel, one of the finest hostels in the city. Hearing him addressed by name and naturally mistaking our citizen for the owner of the establishment a strange gentleman came forward introducing himself and said:

"I am certainly glad to meet you Mr. Gibson. I have stopped at your hotel here lots of times."

Being rather loath to disillusion the man, our Mr. Gibson thanked the guest for his patronage and stated that he hoped he would continue it.

HUGE CONSPIRACY TO SMUGGLE LIQUOR UNCOVERED REPORT

Government Agents Alleged Conspiring
With Kentucky Distillery Exporting Whiskey to Canada to Smuggle Back Here

LARGE PROFITS IN SALE HERE AT BOOTLEG PRICES

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Mar. 7.—A conspiracy
in which government agents are alleged to have acted in collusion with a Kentucky distillery in exporting to Canada one million five hundred thousand dollars worth of whiskey to be smuggled back into the United States is under investigation it was learned today. Federal agents for weeks have been investigating the operation of this ring. They have obtained evidence against a score of men.

A shortage of rye whiskey in American bootleg markets is said to have inspired a conspiracy to withdraw liquor from government warehouses to pay taxes and export it across the border. Conspirators are said to have made a big profit through exportation of subsequent smuggling and sale at bootleg prices. Government operatives refused to discuss details of the plot but admitted they were working on something amazingly big.

BIG COAL MERGER IN FORD FIELDS

Holdings of Harlan and Pike County
Companies Absorbed in West Virginia Company

HARLAN, Mar. 7.—One of the large-est business deals of the year, and one that involves a great deal of Kentucky property, according to authentic information received here, is the absorption of the Banner Fork Coal Corporation in Harlan county, the Pond Creek Coal company in Pike county,
the Dexcar Pocahontas Coal Co., in West Virginia and the Nuttallburg
Smokeless Fuel Co., in West Virginia
by the Fordson Coal Co., incorporated in Delaware, for the sum of $15,000-000. Stone, Pike county, Kentucky, will be the operating headquarters for this corporation.

The Banner Fork Coal Corporation was acquired by the Ford interests a few years ago at what was reported to be $1,000,000 and recently the same interests acquired the Pond Creek coal company for a price reported to be $10,000,000.

The ever present hand of Henry Ford is plainly in evidence in this deal and argues well for the prosperity of the regions surrounding the Ford interests.

A THOUGHT

This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.—1 Tim. 1:15.

We are all sinful; therefore whatever we blame in another we shall find in our own bosoms.—Seneca.

THEY WILL BE MISSED

With the closing day of the Sixty-seventh congress, quite a number of gentlemen had answered to the last roll call heard in the houses in which they had seats. Some of them will not be missed. Others will be. Some of them have served long enough and well enough that the average newspaper reader doesn't have to consult the Congressional Directory to find their names.

One of these is John Sharp Williams, who served eight terms in the house, without a break, and then two terms in the senate. He made for himself a record of which neither he nor his friends need feel ashamed.

Only a few weeks ago death came and the seat held by J. W. Mann, of Illinois was left vacant. He was not an orator, but he never spoke without saying something. He was noted for and hereafter with courage to his convictions. He was not a laggard and never left any one in doubt as to how and where he stood on public questions.

They there was Bourke Cockran, the famous orator, his seat was vacated by death, following the celebration of the anniversary of his birth, and but two days before the death of the 67th congress. The friends that mourned his untimely going corresponded almost exactly with the number of those who knew him.

Last, but not least of those who have served long and voluntarily quit, is Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois. He can boast of that which no other man living or dead could. Twenty-three times he was elected to a seat in the house and served as speaker four terms. The New York Herald says of him:

Joe Cannon has had a number of things to be proud of. The duration of his career in congress and his election as speaker four times make a record which tickles him. He is proud too of having been born in the reign of Andy Jackson, when the national debt was only a million dollars and when there was at a foot of railroad in North Carolina, where Joe was born. He is proud of having been sent to congress in Grant's administration, when there were only thirty-seven states in the union; proud also of his district's devotion to him twenty-three times out of twenty-five. He is proud of having always "done as he pleased," which means that he has smoked all the black cigars he wanted even after the doctors told him that it was high time for a middle aged man of 80 years to slow up. In fact, Uncle Joe has had no visible means of irritation in his mature years except that fact that he is younger than Senator Depew. He seems to feel that he should be the very eldest of the republican sages; but Senator Depew will insist upon being three years older than his friend from Illinois.—Journal and Tribune.

The Merchants Association might do well to model after a local cigar stand proprietor who has in his establishment a placard bearing the words "Our Credit Man Died Last Night."

EARLY PRIVATION AND ULTIMATE SUCCESS

Teachers who go into the more remote and backward districts of the country often remark on the intense desire for education manifested by the young people of these sections. They will often deny themselves many of the necessities of life, they often go short of food, to scrape together the money for book learning.

And you go into a prosperous town, and you find many boys and girls of prosperous families who work just barely enough in their schools to get by, but whose whole heart is on their pleasures.

Prosperous circumstances often dull ambition. There are in every city boys who are struggling to get their heads above the current, who twenty years from now will be the foremost men of the community. And there are others who have every advantage who will in the future count for nothing. Their money may give them a certain position but they will not be a force that achieves anything.—Georgetown News.

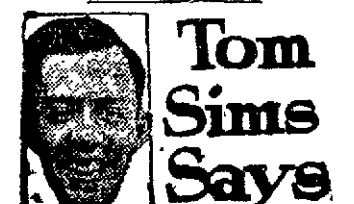

We dislike to revive sad memories, but what has become of the community chest proposition that was so enthusiastically favored a few months ago?

West End residence was destroyed from lack of fire-hose. Our fire department is an efficient map but he needs more equipment.

A Middleboro man has recently acquired 78,000 German marks. It is understood that he intends to paper his house.

Among ancient customs that have survived are bull fighting in Mexico and Wild West shows in Middleboro.

We have only recently learned what "Bedlam" and "Pandemonium" mean. A visit to the Plaineville circuit court is peculiarly educational.

Adventures of The Twins
By Olive Roberts Barton

Away went the Twins in the queer top. If we hit it, we'll smash to splinters."

"All right, I'll be careful," said Nick guiding the automobile away from the well.

Suddenly they heard a sound. "Ding, dong, ding, dong!" it went 12 times.

"It's a clock!" cried Nancy. "Let's stop. I'd like to see it." So the automobile lit in a tree, balancing itself like a bird.

"I thought you'd stop," said the clock. "Have you any extra hands?"

"Only two apiece," said Nick. "That's too bad," sighed the clock. "Since everything here is so mixed up a dreadful time I have of it for I have to tell time with my feet. And feet travel faster than hands. What time is it?"

"Ten o'clock," said the automobile. "Morning or night?"

"Morning!"

"Goodness!" sighed the clock. "Now I'll have to turn myself back twelve hours!"

Washington Letter

By Harry Hunt

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—Winnifred Mason Huck's defeat for the nomination to the seat in the Sixty-eight Congress left vacant by the recent death of James R. Mann of Chicago lost her the chance to hang up a new record in Congressional elections.

Had Mrs. Huck won, she would have achieved two elections to Congress within a period of six months, having been elected only last November to fill the unexpired term of her father.

Woman suffragists throughout the country were pulling for her election—honored of being first to be elected twice which would have given a woman the honor of being first elected to Congress within a period of six months.

Mrs. Huck's defeat, although by a narrow margin, continues the record, unbroken to date, that no woman member of Congress has been reelected for a second term.

Speaking of election records, however, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas has the unique distinction of having been a representative in Congress, a governor of his state and senator-elect, all within the space of a fortnight.

Robinson was a member of Congress when he was elected to be governor of Arkansas. He resigned from the House Jan. 14, 1912, and was inaugurated governor Jan. 16. Senator Jeff Davis suddenly died and on Jan. 28 Robinson was elected to fill the Senatorial vacancy.

Aside from golf, probably no pastime gives President Harding more real enjoyment than a social chat with old-time friends.

Last week in looking over his appointment card the president noted the names: "Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle, Montclair, N. J." They were down for an interview of five minutes.

"Who's Tuttle?" the president inquired of Secretary Christian, who had presented the day's schedule.

"Why, Mr. President," said Christian. "That's George Tuttle, who used to be a linotype operator on the Marion Daily Star. Mrs. Tuttle used to be one of your proof-readers."

"Put 'em at the bottom of the list," Harding directed at once, "so I can give 'em all the time they want. And George—have one of the White House automobiles here and put it at their disposal for the rest of their stay in Washington."

"We'll leave it to you if that isn't treating old pals square."

A "moderate" resumption of White House social activities next fall may be expected, providing Mrs. Harding's health continues its present gratifying improvement.

This improvement, according to General Sawyer, White House physician, while gradual is steady and inspires the hope that after a few months away from Washington, among surrounding where rest and recuperation are more stimulating, the "first lady" will have recovered her old-time vigor and strength.

Intimates familiar with Mrs. Harding's desires socially say that her chief pleasure in the White House social activities is in the enjoyment given her guests.

To the extent that White House functions can be continued without imposing physical exertion upon her, it is believed she might desire them renewed. The occasions might, to that end, be made less strictly formal and the hostess relieved of the duty of standing for hours in a receiving line simply to shake each guest by the hand and bid him welcome. Such an omission, under the circumstances, would be fully understood and appreciated.

The endless round of receptions and social duties observed by Mrs. Harding during her first year in the White House, however, will not be renewed but "moderate" social activity is expected.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

NATIVE BORN

By Berton Braley

Spartanburg, S. C.
Away down here in the land of cotton
The roads at times are a trifle rotten,
And some of the villages might be bettered
And lots of the people are quite unlettered,
And their clothes, at seasons, are badly worn
But the folks, God Bless 'Em, are Native Born!

Now I haven't a kick, at the foreign strain
That's helped to settle our broad domain,
But nevertheless it's here confessed
I like American natives best;
I know their feelings, as they know mine,
For we all are built on the same design.

It's nice to know, when you chance to greet
A fellow citizen on the street,
That he will not waggle his head and say,
"No spik de English," and turn away,
But will smile and answer you, old or young,
In the tangy words of your native tongue.

It makes a stranger feel less forlorn
To chatter awhile with the native born.
South of the Mason and Dixon line
In the land of waffles and southern pine,
They mostly spring from the selfsame sod
That their dad's and their dad's granddaddies trod,
And I may be narrow and due to scorn,
But I sure am strong for the Native Born!

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN
By Ruth Agnes Abeling

A slight sound on the stairs attracted Kate's attention. Presently Monk's droll face appeared in the doorway. He stopped there as it awaiting a welcome.

"Come along, boy," Kate murmured. Monk lumbered heavily across the room and began a lazy nosing of the trunk and its contents. He never had seen the man to whom the trunk and clothing belonged, yet he seemed to feel a more than casual interest in them as his sensitive black nose touched the fabric.

Kate, lost in reverie, paid no attention to the dog's searching until at length she heard his claws scratching nervously on the lining of the trunk. Looking up, she discovered that Monk's head, shoulders and forepaws were in the battered piece of baggage that he had worked the clothing into a heap at one side, and that he was sniffing a seam which ran the full length of the bottom.

"Come away, Monk," with her hand on his collar, Kate attempted to distract the dog's attention. "Don't tear it!" she said, as his huge paw, claws out, once more dragged across the seam slightly separating the two pieces.

"Why it opens," Kate exclaimed, as she saw the light board on one side of the seam give way under the dogs' weight.

With eager, nervous fingers she worked at the crack. Monk taking the thing for a game, tore away vigorously. His huge mouth hanging open he fairly chuckled at the fun. It recalled his puppy days. He liked it.

Finally, with a slight squeaking sound, the top and frayed bottom lifted under Kate's hands and there, under it, folded neatly and tied, were several packets of letters, an old wallet and some official looking papers.

As if he sensed that he had reached the limit of his privileges, Monk stepped out of the trunk, leaving the folded contents of the bottom as neatly arranged as any woman might have done.

He sat down beside Kate and watched gravely, while her trembling finger skimmed the packets, scarcely venturing to remove any one of them. They seemed things sacred to her. It was so like Dan to have put them in the precise rows in which she found them. Happy-go-lucky as Dan always was he was infinitely particular about his personal belongings.

DO YOU WONDER?

Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Oswatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell. . . .

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything.

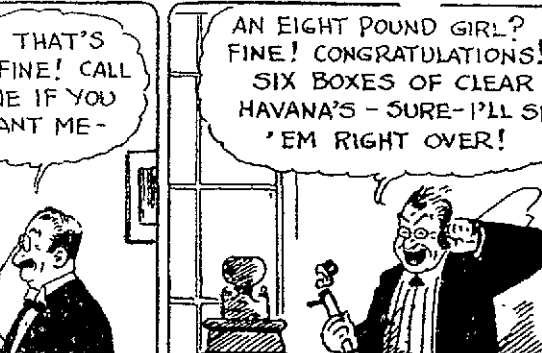

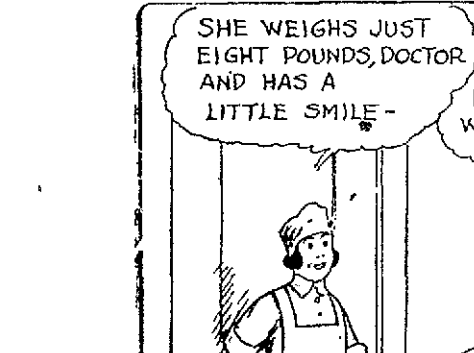

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months.

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman.

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui."

How can I rid me
Of what is not mine—
This self that was youth's.
This song swift and fine
That wraps me with fire:
And yet is not mine.

Song to be seemly
For her that is I,
Is song low with sleep
To be hummed in a sigh,
As I weave cool reason
Out of the sounds that go by.

And who would be wanting Song not her own,
Though it warms with warmth
The sun has not known,
When she might be thinking,
And cold and alone?

TODAY'S RECIPES

RIBBON SANDWICHES

Remove crusts from loaf of white bread. Cut into slices an eighth of an inch thick.

Work half a cup of butter with a spoon until creamy. Color it green, using spinach juice or color paste, and mix with one-fourth cup of grated horseradish. Season with salt, and spread the bread with this mixture, placing one slice upon another until the sandwich consists of 10 layers.

Press firmly together, and put in a cold place until time to serve; then cut these piles into slices one-fourth inch thick.

If it's necessary to keep the sandwiches for some time wrap in a napkin wrung out of hot water, or in wax paper.

Ribbon sandwiches can be made very attractive by placing red, green and yellow fillings between the slices of bread. Repeat this twice. Chopped pimientos with cheeses, green peppers ham and hard cooked egg make good fillings, combined with butter or mayonnaise.

My friends were astonished at my rapid

Social graces are absolutely essential to social success. Gentility must be both graceful and gracious.
Nowhere is gentility put to a more severe test than in the ballroom. It's true that dancers are born and not made, yet with patient practice and intelligent instruction, any able bodied person can become an acceptable dancer, and should.

AT THE DANCE

1: A man asks the first dance of the woman he has escorted, and makes sure that she does not lack partners for later dances.

2: The woman does not seek her partner for any dance number; he comes to her.

3: Any couple who dance together
so much as to make themselves conspicuous court criticism.

4: No man should ask a woman to dance with him unless he is sufficiently proficient so that the dance will be a pleasure to her.

5: Men who accept invitations to a dance are duty-bound to participate in the dancing, instead of loitering in the smoking room.

It's bad manners for a man to leave a woman standing alone on the floor;
either he escorts her to a seat or waits
with her until her next partner claims her.

Villa May Try "Come Back" Ex-Bandit Getting Restless

EL PASO, Tex., March 7.—Francisco Villa, former Mexican bandit chief, is learning to read and write.

This may be taken as a praise-worthy attempt of this former "scourge of Mexico" to settle down and educate himself. But—

It is recalled, along the border here, that during his days of power, Pancho Villa had to dictate his orders for executions, depending on some underling to write them and carry them out. Well, what could keep these underlings from substituting the names of their personal enemies for those mentioned by Villa?

This happened several times when Villa was Mexico's boss. Hereafter, he will be able to write out his own execution orders, if he becomes dictator—

For reports that Villa is aspiring to become dictator gain force here. Three years is a long time for such a restless spirit as Villa's to waste on crop making playthings on his 200,000 acre farm at Cantuillo. But there he is under orders of Obregon to remain with his wife and two boys.

Can't Go Far

For the last year, it is now Villa has wanted to visit Mexico City and the United States. But there are restrictions against him. He has agreed not to enter Mexico City and, although he has sent envoys to ask Obregon's permission to visit to capital, the Mexican president in high-sounding Spanish phrases, politely declined.

Villa cannot cross the Rio Grande because the order of former President Wilson to capture him dead or alive still stands, because he still faces a charge of murder in the New Mexican courts a naecount of the Columbus raid, because the offer of Colonel Slocum, who was in command of Columbus of $50,000 for the capture of the ex-bandit, dead or alive, has not been withdrawn.

But that doesn't annoy Villa.

Would Visit Dallas

Only recently he sent a sounder to Austin. Would Governor Neff of Texas permit a reformed bandit and meek agriculturist to go to Dallas for farm implements and have a little fun at the same time? If the governor would grant the permit Villa would hasten to Dallas and make the farm implement dealers happy by leaving with them so many pesos. But Neff said no.

There is nothing to stop Villa going to Juarez if he wants to go, but with the New Mexican indictment and reward of $50,000 hanging over him, he doesn't care to get so close to the border. Juarez being just across the river from El Paso, some ambitious gringo detectives might take it in their heads to grab him, place him in an automobile and whisk him across the river in a jiffy, for El Paso detectives are known to have done that to other refugees who went to Juarez, thinking they were safe.

Eyes On "Fascisti"

Durango reports say Villa is figuring on running for governor of that state, but this has been current for two years. As a matter of fact Pancho despite his growing restlessness, is keeping an eye on the spread of the "Fascisti movement" in Mexico.

That is something after his own heart and appeals to him. When the party gets strong enough to be a power, it will be arranged, if reports are to be credited, that Gustavo Sainzula Sclilla, president of the organization, shall step aside and invite Villa to take the Fascisti reins. Then perhaps Villa's imprisonment on his 200,000 acre ranch will end.

MARKS IN GERMANY NOT WORTH SAVING NOW

By Associated Press
HAMBURG, March 7.—Germans have slowly learned that it is unwise to save marks while they are falling so rapidly in value. Even servants earning very small wage have adopted the plan of converting their money immediately into something which has real value. Such persons seldom have enough to buy foreign money, so they acquire articles which will always be in demand. Furthermore, they usually have these purchases in some small town where prices are lower than in the great centers which know more about international exchange operations.

The cook in one American family in Hamburg recently told her mistress she was investing her earnings in furniture which she had ordered a cabinet-maker in her native village to manufacture. She had bought the wood at a bargain, and to man was doing the work very cheaply in his spare time.

While the cook was not bethrothed, and did not know that she would marry, she explained to her mistress that her chances will be much brighter

A Year of Achievement

For many months this Railroad has been publishing information largely about railroads in general. To-day, however, we submit a record of the L. & N.'s accomplishments for 1922, together with a statement of its plans for 1923, insofar as they have been formulated.

The operations of the L. & N., in common with practically all other roads of the country, were, because of unsettled business conditions followed by upsetting labor disturbances, very seriously retarded during many months of 1922. Yet, despite these handicaps, the freight traffic of the L. & N. during the year 1922 showed an increase over 1921 of 10.4 per cent, reaching in May and June a higher peak than any other two months in the history of the road. The total volume of business transacted by this Company during 1922, notwithstanding the severe interruptions, was only three per cent less than that during the road's banner year—that immediately following the World War.

The following thumb-nail facts reflect the importance of the L. & N. to the entire nation, and exhibit its purpose to provide adequate transportation facilities.

In 1922, the L. & N. transported 49,000,000 tons of freight on an average of 201 miles, equivalent to 9,800,000,000 ton miles.

In 1922, thirteen million passengers employed the service of this road for an average ride of 52 miles each. It is an interesting fact that the L. & N. has carried 78,000,000 people over its rails without a single passenger being fatally injured in a train accident.

In order to handle this great volume of business the L. & N. employs nearly 48,000 people whose annual compensation approximates $68,000,000.

During the year 1922, the L. & N. paid in State, County and City taxes over $4,600,000.

During 1922, the L. & N. handled 27,421,000 tons of coal, the largest in its history.

Spending $2,200,000 Every 30 Days For Enlarging And Improving Service

Since the end of Federal control the L. & N. has expended or appropriated a total of $79,100,000 for the purpose of providing a better and more efficient transportation plant—an aggregate equal to $2,200,000 every thirty days. This represents an investment of over three times the actual income derived from the operation of these properties and should impress the public with earnest determination on the part of the L. & N. to build constructively for the future.

Of this enormous sum $26,600,000 was contracted for during the year 1922 and $23,600,000 has already been authorized for 1923, which includes the construction of 19 miles of double track and the purchase of 60 locomotives, 57 passenger cars and 11,505 freight cars.

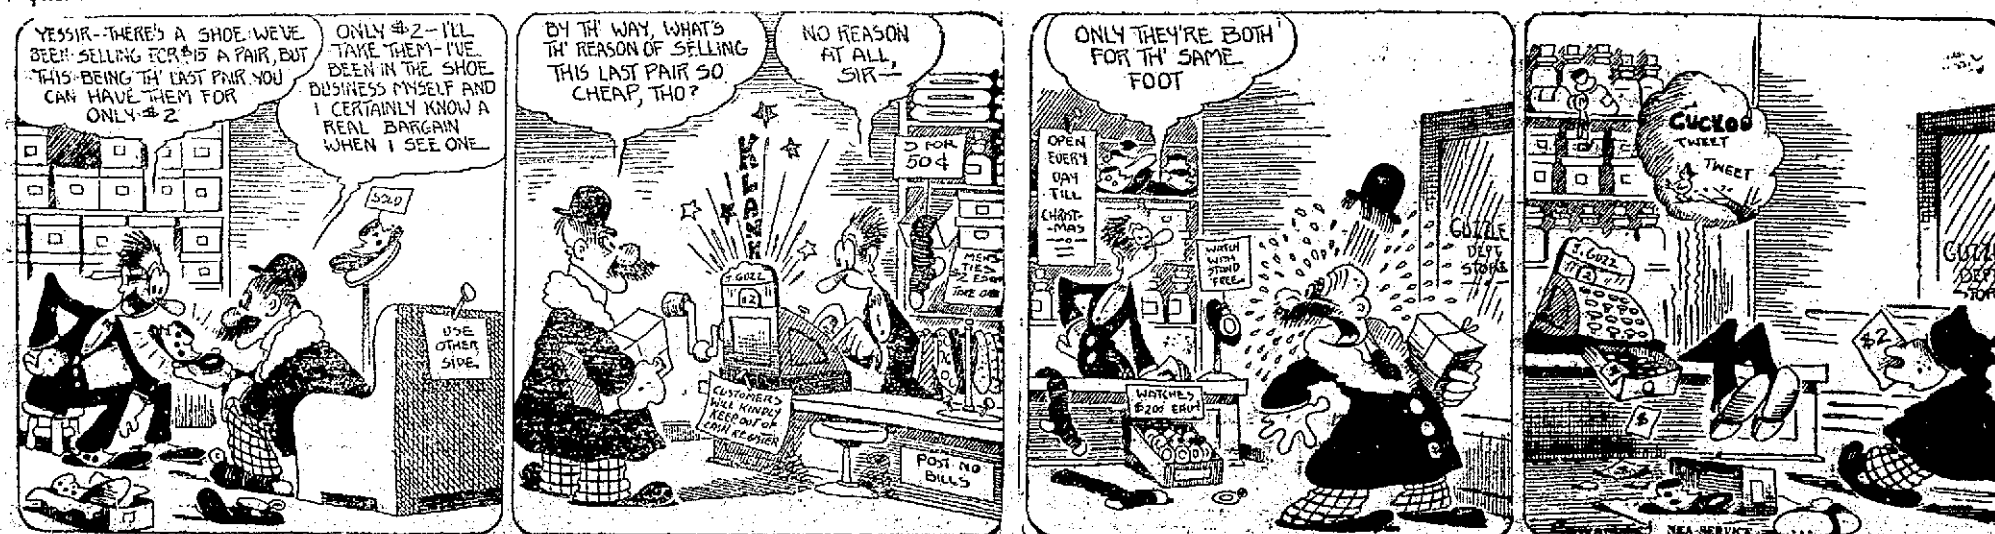

The readers of this newspaper are invited to consider the foregoing statements of the L. & N.'s great achievement, and to keep this fact constantly before them—that the L. & N. and other important railroad systems of the nation are striving earnestly and conscientiously to supply the maximum transportation service adequate to the present and potential demands; and to remember particularly that constructive co-operation with the railroads, rather than destructive criticism based on half-truths or whole lies uttered by demagogic and inflated propagandists, will tend more than anything else, toward the solution of the important question of producing railroad service of the highest type at the lowest possible cost.

Murderer, Doomed to Die, Guarded From Hate of The Woman He Once Betrayed

By J. P. Wright

FLORENCE, Ariz., March 7.—Hated immortalized in fiction must yield before reality if Mrs. Ida Hadley's threat penetrates the thick penitentiary walls to cheat the laws of a life it has declared forfeited.

And so seriously do the prison officials fear her that special guards night and day stand outside the cell of Paul V. Hadley, sentenced to die Friday April 13. They are there to save him from harm rather than guard against possible escape.

It is the story of love turned to hate, or how a woman betrayed by the man she loved, of woman's sacrifice set at naught. Will the last chapter be her revenge? Those who came in contact with Ida Hadley's characteristic determination when she "did time" for her husband, believe it more than possible.

Back in 1916, Ida lived in Kansas City Mo., happy in the love of her husband, Paul. First intimation of disaster came when Sheriff Jack Giles of Beaumont, Tex., appeared with a warrant for his arrest, and prepared to take him back to Texas to face charges.

Pleading her great love, Ida would

permission to accompany her husband on the trip.

Helps Escape

On the train, near Muskogee, Okla., Ida seized the sheriff's pistol and fired. The sheriff fell dead. Then, jerking a bellcord, she stopped the train and fled with her husband into the woods.

Four days later the couple was captured. The wife pleaded that she alone was guilty that her husband should be freed.

"Gladly will I go to prison to free him," she declared. "My love for him is so great that it would be a joy to save him, even at the cost of my freedom."

But both were sentenced to the Oklahoma state prison.

In prison Hadley perfected a small invention and on his honor, was permitted to go to Kansas City alone to see capitalists.

His last words to his wife in the prison were that he would come back—that he didn't want to be free while she was behind bars.

But Paul Hadley did not arrive in Kansas City and for a long time no trace of him could be found.

Deceived

When the wife realized he had run away, she flew into a rage and swore she would kill him when she found her way to freedom.

Then came word that Hadley, under the name of William Estaveer, had killed Mrs. Anna C. Johnson, wife of a Denver contractor, with whom he was riding in a motor car.

Again the young wife in the Oklahoma prison swore vengeance.

Soon after that a parole was granted her and she walked out of the prison a free woman.

She refused to tell where she was going.

For a while authorities kept tract of her. But now she has disappeared and a guard paces in front of Hadley's cell protecting him against the woman who once loved him enough to slay that he might be free.

Will Pet Dogs and Birds Solve Mystery of Murder?

By Alexander Herman

NEW YORK, March 7.—Queer factors in a murder—two chow dogs, two parrots, a parakeet, a canary!

The love affairs of Frederick Schneider, wealthy contractor, mysteriously killed, are tied up with the animals and birds that made his office a combination menagerie-aviary. The dogs, Zula and Hula, were with him when he was shot to death in his automobile.

What did these pets have to do with the tragedy? Dr. S. A. Tannenbaum, physician, author and noted psychiatrist, whose opinion has been sought in many murder cases offers an answer.

"A superiority complex, symbolized by these pets," he says, "led to the killing."

"Schneider's interest in birds and animals probably developed from an accidental association. Some woman he loved, probably, was very fond of such pets. For her sake he developed a fondness for them himself."

"Women take to dogs—or to canaries or parrots—as a outlet for their affection. When they have no children, they lavish it on dumb pets.

"But men do not react the same way. Their interest, once centered by an accidental association, is developed by their sporting instinct."

"Schneider was a good sport. He never took life seriously. He never thought about the future. He didn't seem to worry about anything."

"More than six feet tall, good looking, dashing, he was a very attractive type. He had been in the army, was a captain of engineers during the World War. This lent a glamour that made him even more attractive."

"Many loved him. He knew it. Was rather proud of it. Most persons are."

"He became a financial success. This hastened the development of his superiority complex. He became obsessed with personal pride, independence and self-reliance."

"He instinctively sought symbols for these. He found them—in his pets. His dogs, Zula and Hula, went wherever he did."

When he looked up from his desk and saw the parrots, parakeets and canaries about his office, he got a feeling that he was a peculiar distinctive person, different from the average. He felt that he was no ordinary man."

"No ordinary conduct of life satisfied him. He tried to live in an atmosphere of superiority created by himself. His intimates aided in the illusion."

"Now to go to the other side of the picture of tragedies. Like this—the women involved directly or indirectly. Coddled by men so long, women have been made to feel that they have not the same responsibility. When faced with difficulties, they become fearful, and tragedy often results."

Had women anything more than an indirect part in the Schneider tragedy? Or is the murderer a man? Only the dogs, Zula and Hula, know the answer.

Too Much Meat Hurts Kidneys

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up, and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also, to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it is no longer irritating, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Once You've Put STANOCOLA Polarine MOTOR OIL In Your Motor

and given it a test, you will not be satisfied with any other motor oil. Polarine is made in one of the world's greatest refineries, from the heart of specially-selected "crudes"—distilled, refined and filtered to just the proper grade of oiliness.

It is transported from the refineries to your dealer's tanks and dispensed by him with such care that you may be assured of its purity, regardless of whether you buy it in bulk or in packages.

Ask your dealer to consult the chart of recommendations and tell you just what grade of Polarine to use. After you have done this, the simple recipe for motor satisfaction is to watch your quantity and have your crank case drained every six or seven hundred miles and refilled with Polarine; then stick to the grade the chart has recommended.

CROWN Gasoline

is made and dispensed with the same care as Polarine. There is just as much difference in the quality of gasolines as there is in the quality of motor oils. Better stick to the standard and use Crown Gasoline.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

As Spring days approach, the demand for Dodge Brothers Touring Car mounts swiftly.

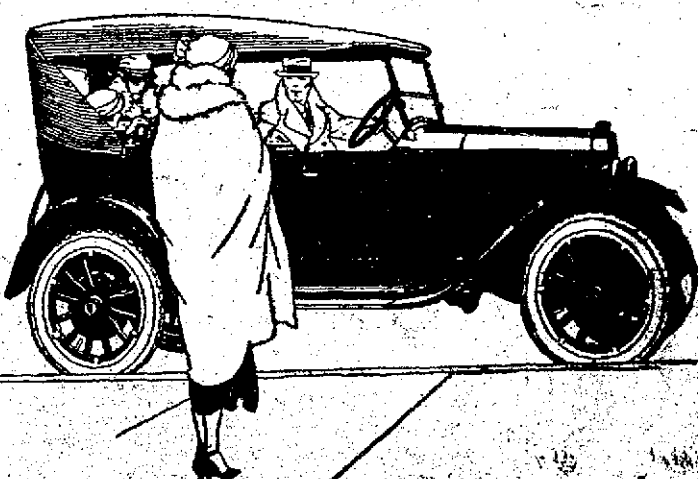

Dodge Brothers one problem, at present, is not how many Touring Cars they can sell, but how many they can build.

Never was public approval of Dodge Brothers product more obvious, and never was it more richly deserved.

Improvements, rarely spoken of but constantly being made, have brought the car to a state of perfection which can only be described as remarkable, even for Dodge Brothers.

Every part which takes a major strain is built of chrome vanadium steel. Many more pieces of alloy steel are used in vital parts than normal wear requires.

WHAT is a CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENT

It Is In the Spine

It is a movement or a number of movements of the Chiropractor, made with the hands in a scientific manner, upon the vertebra, or long segment of the spine, (which has become displaced) moving it back to its normal position. When your auto (figuratively speaking) is not hitting on all cylinders, you immediately consult a mechanic and have him make proper adjustments that your machine will function normally and give you the service it should.

How about this human machine of yours; are you giving it the proper attention you should when it isn't running smoothly?

If not, why not.

Isn't your human machine of much more value to you than your auto?

Can you easily replace it when it is worn out?

When the electric current is cut off or impaired leading to the cylinders of your car, there is lack or loss of power, depending upon the degree to which the current is impaired, and by proper adjustment the full amount of current can be restored. The same thing is true of your body, where there is pressure on a nerve where it leaves the spine, there is lack of life force, being carried to the part of body supplied by that nerve, the result is disease.

Chiropractic adjustments remove the pressure so the life force can flow to the part affected, then Nature restores it to normal.

Think this over, then come in and let us tell you what CHIROPRACTIC will do.

RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS BACKACHE

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.
